Today I'm going to be writing about my mom. How she is a big influence and how I look up to her in my life. My mom's real name is Katie or Kate. My mom helped me in a painful time, when I was 3 years old. My mom was feeding my sister because my sister was 2 months old.

My mom thought I was putting on my pjs and I told her I'm doing them, but I wasn't. I was trying to get a red balloon. But it was too high, so I went on a recliner to try and get it, but then I slipped and smacked my head on a marble table.

I was smacked, my mom rushed over, grab a towel and put it over my head. My mom called her sister Heather. Then we went to the hospital they stitched my head and my mom was there giving me power through the pain. And I got to go get a popsicle thankfully. I only hit the left corner of

My head. Another reason I look up to my mom is what she does every day, she helps me with my homework. She takes great care of me and my sister. She packs our lunch. And she makes me feel safe. She always puts safety first and one thing I have learned over the years she is 99.9% right. My mom is very responsible. She has a super power to love us. Another reason why I look up to my mom. My mom she has integrity and she is humble. She leads me and my sister in the right path. I think my mom is wonderful. She works so hard. I think wow she has so much energy and athletic like me. I know where I get energy and athletic from my mom is some one I can always trust. I have given her about one billion secrets and none have been spoken. She always knows
